

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE DECISION
ILLINOIS PROPERTY TAX APPEAL BOARD

APPELLANT: Jenny L. Meyer
DOCKET NO.: 06-25728.001-R-1
PARCEL NO.: 14-20-311-047-0000

The parties of record before the Property Tax Appeal Board are Jenny L. Meyer, the appellant, by attorney Stephanie Park, of Park & Longstreet, P.C. in Rolling Meadows; and the Cook County Board of Review.

Based on the facts and exhibits presented, the Property Tax Appeal Board hereby finds a reduction in the assessment of the property as established by the Cook County Board of Review is warranted. The correct assessed valuation of the property is:

LAND: $ 3,551
IMPR.: $ 37,334
TOTAL: $ 40,885

Subject only to the State multiplier as applicable.

ANALYSIS

The subject property consists of a 519 square foot parcel improved with a 13-year-old, two-story, town house dwelling of masonry construction containing 1,275 square feet of living area and located in Lake View Township, Cook County. Features of the residence include two full bathrooms, central air-conditioning and a one and one-half car attached garage.

The parties jointly agreed to consolidate this appeal with nine other matters for hearing purposes. All the residential appeals raise the same issue with varying suggested comparables. The appellant's contention is unequal treatment in the assessment process. However, counsel raised a legal issue arguing that the PTAB as a matter of law cannot rely on the board of review's comparables, because they are: identical to the subject in most respects, contain nearly the same assessments, and have filed similar property tax appeals. Counsel argued that the Second District Appellant Court ruled that PTAB erred as a matter of law in relying on such properties. Pace Realty Group, Inc. v. Property Tax Appeal Board, 306 Ill.App.3d 718, 728 N.E.2d 1249

(2nd Dist. 1999). Counsel also argued that the present matter is identical to Pace Realty in that the Cook County Board of Review is relying upon town houses identical to the subject property to establish the high end of the range of assessments to suggest the subject property's assessment is uniform. Counsel further argued that the PTAB cannot consider these properties for the same reasons the Appellate Court cited in Pace Realty. First, the assessments of the other identical town houses merely self-validate the very same assessments under appeal. Second, the use of other identical town houses makes the assessment appeal process meaningless because it in essence unlawfully takes away the constitutional right of a town house owner to make a uniformity appeal if one or more of the other identical town houses could be used to establish the high end of the range. Therefore, counsel argued that pursuant to Pace Realty, the PTAB cannot rely upon similar situated comparables whose assessment is being currently contested and under appeal.

In support of the equity claim, the appellant submitted assessment data and descriptive information on eight properties suggested as comparable to the subject. Based on the appellant's documents, the eight suggested comparables consist of two-story or three-story, town house dwellings of masonry construction located within the subject's neighborhood. The improvements range in size from 1,243 to 1,395 square feet of living area and range in age from 11 to 17 years old. The comparables contain one and one-half, two or two and one-half bathrooms, central air-conditioning and a one-car or two-car attached garage. The improvement assessments range from $21.34 to $32.51 per square foot of living area.

The appellant also argued that the subject's market value is not accurately reflected in its assessment. In support of the market value argument, the appellant submitted five properties suggested as comparable to the subject. The five comparables consist of multi-story, 13-year-old, town house dwellings of masonry construction located within the same Sidwell block as the subject. The improvements range in size from 1,275 to 1,743 square feet of living area. They sold from April 2003 to January 2006 for prices ranging from $385,000 to $470,000, or $240.68 to $316.86 per square foot of living area, including land. Based on the evidence submitted, the appellant requested a reduction in the subject's improvement assessment.

The board of review submitted its "Board of Review Notes on Appeal" disclosing the subject's total assessment of $47,703. The subject's assessment reflects a fair market value of $471,374 or $369.70 per square foot of living area, including land, when applying the 2006 three-year median level of assessments of 10.12% for Cook County class 2 properties as determined by the Illinois Department of Revenue. The subject's improvement assessment is $44,152 or $34.63 per square foot of living area. In support of the assessment, the board submitted property characteristic printouts and descriptive data on three properties suggested as comparable to the subject. The suggested comparables consist of two-story, 13-year-old, 1,275 square foot town house dwellings of masonry construction located within the same Sidwell block as the subject. The comparables contain two and one-half bathrooms, central air-conditioning and a one and one-half car attached garage. The improvement assessments range from $34.51 to $34.65 per square foot of living area.

At hearing, the board's representative indicated that the appellant has the burden of proving the disparity of assessment valuation by clear and convincing evidence. Based on the evidence presented, the board of review requested confirmation of the subject's assessment.

After hearing the testimony and considering the evidence, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds that it has jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter of this appeal. The appellant's argument was unequal treatment in the assessment process. The Illinois Supreme Court has held that taxpayers who object to an assessment on the basis of lack of uniformity bear the burden of proving the disparity of assessment valuations by clear and convincing evidence. Kankakee County Board of Review V. Property Tax Appeal Board, 131 Ill.2d 1 (1989). The evidence must demonstrate a consistent pattern of assessment inequities within the assessment jurisdiction. After an analysis of the assessment data, the PTAB finds the appellant has not overcome this burden.

Pursuant to Pace Realty Group, Inc., v. The Property Tax Appeals Board, 306 Ill. App. 3d 718, 728, 713 N.E.2d 1249, 239 Ill. Dec. 399 (1999), the Appellate Court found that in determining what properties are truly comparable, there is error as a matter of law when the selection of a comparable includes a property which has also received the same contested assessment. Further, the Court stated that conducting a uniformity analysis in such a manner will lead to absurd results and will render the assessment appeal process meaningless. Therefore, the Board shall accord no weight to suggested comparables which are: sited within the subject's complex, also under appeal, and reflect a similarly contested assessment. Thereby, the appellant's comparables seven and eight and the board of review's comparable one will be accorded no weight in this case's analysis as a matter of law.

The PTAB finds the appellant's comparables two and six and the board of reviews comparables two and three to be the most similar properties to the subject in the record. These four properties are similar to the subject in improvement size, amenities, age, design and location and have improvement assessments ranging from $24.47 to $34.65 per square foot of living area. The subject's per square foot improvement assessment of $34.63 falls within the range established by these properties. The board finds the appellant's remaining comparables less similar to the subject in size and/or design and accorded less weight. After considering adjustments and the differences in both parties' suggested comparables when compared to the subject, the PTAB finds the subject's per square foot improvement assessment is supported by the most similar properties contained in the record.

When market value is the basis of the appeal the value of the property must be proved by a preponderance of the evidence. National City Bank of Michigan/Illinois v. Illinois Property Tax Appeal Board, 331 Ill.App.3d 1038 (3rd Dist, 2002); Winnebago County Board of Review v. Property Tax Appeal Board, 313 Ill.App.3d 179 (2nd Dist. 2000). Proof of market value may consist of an appraisal, a recent arms-length sale of the subject property, recent sales of comparable properties, or recent construction costs of the subject property. (86 Ill.Adm.Code §1910.65(c)) Having reviewed the record and considering the evidence, the PTAB finds the appellant has met this burden.

Regarding the appellant's overvaluation argument, the PTAB finds the appellant submitted sales data on five suggested comparables. The PTAB finds these properties similar to the subject. They consist of multi-story, 13-year-old, town house dwellings of masonry construction located within the subject's neighborhood. The improvements range in size from 1,275 to 1,743 square feet of living area. These properties sold from April 2003 to January 2006 for prices ranging from $385,000 to $470,000, or $240.68 to $316.86 per square foot of living area, including land. In comparison, the subject's assessment reflects a market value of $369.70 per square foot of living area, including land, which falls above the range established by the appellant's comparables.

On the basis of the analysis of the appellant's comparable sales, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds the subject had a fair market value of $404,000 as of January 1, 2006. Since the market value of the subject has been established, the Department of Revenue's 2006 three-year median level of assessments for Cook County Class 2 property of 10.12% will apply. In applying the three-year median level of assessments to the subject, the total assessed value is $40,885, while the subject's current total assessed value is above this amount at $47,703. Therefore, the PTAB finds that a reduction is warranted.

This is a final administrative decision of the Property Tax Appeal Board which is subject to review in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court under the provisions of the Administrative Review Law (735 ILCS 5/3-101 et seq.) and section 16-195 of the Property Tax Code.
