

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE DECISION
ILLINOIS PROPERTY TAX APPEAL BOARD

APPELLANT: Cameel Halim
DOCKET NO.: 07-23356.001-C-1
PARCEL NO.: 14-05-410-004-0000

The parties of record before the Property Tax Appeal Board are Cameel Halim, the appellant(s), by attorney James A. Field, of Field and Goldberg, LLC in Chicago; and the Cook County Board of Review.

Based on the facts and exhibits presented, the Property Tax Appeal Board hereby finds no change in the assessment of the property as established by the Cook County Board of Review is warranted. The correct assessed valuation of the property is:

LAND: $ 29,700
IMPR.: $ 423,110
TOTAL: $ 452,810

Subject only to the State multiplier as applicable.

ANALYSIS

The subject property consists of a 7,500 square foot parcel improved with a 75-year-old, nine-story, 78-unit, apartment building of masonry construction located in Lake View Township, Cook County. The appellant's evidence disclosed that the subject contains 23,248 square feet of building area and provided a copy of the Assessor's Internet Database sheets for the subject. The board of review provided the Assessor's building record cards which disclosed that floors one through four contain 23,248 square feet with the remaining five floors containing 20,225 square feet for a total of 43,473 square feet of building area. The Board will use the Assessor's documented figure of 43,473 square feet in the analysis.

The appellant, through counsel, submitted evidence before the Property Tax Appeal Board claiming unequal treatment in the assessment process of the improvement as the basis of the appeal. In support of this claim, the appellant submitted assessment data and descriptive information on three properties suggested as comparable to the subject. Based on the appellant's documents, the three suggested comparables consist of multi-story, masonry constructed apartment buildings located within one mile of the subject. One of the comparables is located outside the subject's neighborhood code. The improvements range in size from 37,860 to 47,168 square feet of building area, in age from 77 to 80 years old and in number of apartments from 59 to 68 units. They range in land size from 7,500 to 14,300 square feet. The improvement assessments range from $5.30 to $7.05 per square foot of building area. The subject's improvement assessment is $9.73 per square foot of building area. Based on the equity comparables submitted, the appellant requested a reduction in the subject's improvement assessment.

The appellant also argued overvaluation in that the income generated by the subject does not warrant its high level of taxation, and therefore its excessive assessment. In support of the request for relief due to the subject's diminished income, the appellant's attorney prepared and submitted an "income approach", using the subject's actual income and expenses. The appellant provided the subject's year end operating statements and federal tax returns for tax years 2004 through 2006. The appellant's evidence disclosed that the subject property's three year average gross income less stabilized expenses produced a net income of $231,666 for the subject. Applying a capitalization rate of 13.12% produced a market value for the subject of $1,765,747. A factor of 22%, which represents the Cook County Real Property Classification Ordinance level of assessment for Class 3 property, was applied to determine a requested total assessment of $388,464 for the subject.

The board of review submitted its "Board of Review Notes on Appeal" disclosing the subject's total assessment of $452,810, which reflects a market value of $2,058,227 or $47.34 per square foot of building area, utilizing the Cook County Real Property Assessment Classification Ordinance level of assessment of 22% for Class 3 property, such as the subject. As evidence, the board of review submitted five sales with an unadjusted range of from $66.89 to $199.72 per square foot of building area, including land. No analysis or adjustment of the sales data was provided by the board. Based on the evidence presented, the board of review requested confirmation of the subject's assessment.

After reviewing the record and considering the evidence, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds that it has jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter of this appeal. The appellant's argument was unequal treatment in the assessment process. The Illinois Supreme Court has held that taxpayers who object to an assessment on the basis of lack of uniformity bear the burden of proving the disparity of assessment valuations by clear and convincing evidence. Kankakee County Board of Review V. Property Tax Appeal Board, 131 Ill.2d 1 (1989). The evidence must demonstrate a consistent pattern of assessment inequities within the assessment jurisdiction. After an analysis of the assessment data, the Board finds the appellant has not overcome this burden.

Regarding the inequity argument, the Board finds the appellant submitted three properties as suggested comparables to the subject. The Board finds these properties similar to the subject in exterior construction and age. However, the Board further finds these properties differ to varying degrees in building size, land size, number of units and location when compared to the subject. The Board accords the board of review's evidence little weight in that it does not address the appellant's lack of uniformity argument. After considering adjustments, as well as other differences in the appellant's comparables when compared to the subject, the Board finds the evidence is insufficient to effect a change in the subject's assessment.

The appellant contends the market value of the subject property is not accurately reflected in its assessed valuation. When market value is the basis of the appeal the value of the property must be proved by a preponderance of the evidence. National City Bank of Michigan/Illinois v. Illinois Property Tax Appeal Board, 331 Ill.App.3d 1038 (3rd Dist, 2002); Winnebago County Board of Review v. Property Tax Appeal Board, 313 Ill.App.3d 179 (2nd Dist. 2000). Proof of market value may consist of an appraisal, a recent arms-length sale of the subject property, recent sales of comparable properties, or recent construction costs of the subject property. (86 Ill.Ad.Code §1910.65(c)) Having considered the evidence, the Board finds the appellant has not satisfied this burden and a reduction is not warranted.

Regarding the appellant's overvaluation contention, the Board finds the appellant's argument that the subject's assessment is excessive when applying an income approach based on the subject's actual income and expenses unconvincing and not supported by evidence in the record. In Springfield Marine Bank v. Property Tax Appeal Board, 44 Ill.2d 428 (1970), the court stated:

[I]t is the value of the "tract or lot of real property" clearly which is assessed, rather than the value of the interest presently held. . . [R]ental income may of course be a relevant factor. However, it cannot be the controlling factor, particularly where it is admittedly misleading as to the fair cash value of the property involved. . . [E]arning capacity is properly regarded as the most significant element in arriving at "fair cash value". . . Many factors may prevent a property owner from realizing an income from property, which accurately reflects its true earning capacity; but it is the capacity for earning income, rather than the income actually derived, which reflects "fair cash value" for taxation purposes." Springfield Marine Bank v. Property Tax Appeal Board 44 Ill.2d 428 at 430-431.

Actual expenses and income can be useful when shown that they are reflective of the market. The appellant did not demonstrate that the subject's actual income and expenses were reflective of the market. To demonstrate or estimate the subject's market value using an income approach, as the appellant attempted, one must establish through the use of market data the market rent, vacancy and collection losses, and expenses to arrive at a net operating income. Further, the appellant must establish through the use of market data a capitalization rate to convert the net income into an estimate of market value. The appellant failed to follow this procedure in developing the income approach to value; therefore, the Property Tax Appeal Board gives this argument no weight.

As a result of this analysis, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds the appellant has failed to adequately demonstrate that the subject dwelling was inequitably assessed or overvalued and a reduction is not warranted.

This is a final administrative decision of the Property Tax Appeal Board which is subject to review in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court under the provisions of the Administrative Review Law (735 ILCS 5/3-101 et seq.) and section 16-195 of the Property Tax Code.
