Outbuildings:	$1,570
TOTAL:	$34,610

Analysis

The subject property consists of an improved farmland parcel of 60 acres. The subject property is improved with a single family residence and six outbuildings. The subject property is located in rural Dakota Township, Stephenson County.

The appellants appeared before the Property Tax Appeal Board claiming a contention of law regarding the assessment of farm buildings as the basis of the appeal.¹ The appellants did not dispute the subject's homesite, residence or farmland assessments but contend that the improvements identified on the property record card as buildings #2 through #5; a lean-to, a barn, a milk house and a silo of various sizes made no contribution to the operation of the farm, as they were vacant or used for non-farm storage and have not been used for livestock farming for many years.

In support of the farm building contention, the appellants submitted a letter, photographs and a calculation grid that displays current market value, current price per square foot, building size, requested value, requested price per square foot and reason for reduction. The appellants testified that building #1 and building #6 are being used for small farm implements and have some value.

Under cross-examination the appellants testified that their requested market value was based off of one fourth of the county's value. The appellants testified that buildings #1 and #6 are in poor condition and not average condition.

The board of review submitted its "Board of Review Notes on Appeal" wherein the subject's total assessment $36,740 was disclosed. Representing the board of review was Chief County Assessment Official and Clerk to the Board of Review, Ron Kane. In support of the subject's assessment the board of review submitted a property record card with calculations of the outbuildings, photographs and aerial maps of the subject property. Kane testified that 2011 was the general assessment year for Dakota Township and a letter addressed to the Dakota Township and to Stephenson County from the appellants stating, "Concerning parcel # 89-14-09-26-400-001, I do not give you permission to come onto this property in Dakota township." Kane testified that the farm buildings are valued based on the replacement cost new less depreciation. Kane testified that all the buildings are depreciated at 85% except the silo and it was depreciated at 99%. Kane testified that all the buildings are valued because there is nothing in the statutes that defines contribution to value.

Under cross-examination, Kane testified that buildings still have a contribution to the farm based on income tax purposes. Kane testified that the values on the property record card are derived from their computer assisted mass appraisal system, which uses the Illinois Real Property Appraisal Manual. Kane reiterated that all the farm buildings have some contribution to the farm. Kane testified that five of the six buildings are receiving a salvage value.

After hearing the testimony and considering the evidence, the Property Tax Appeal Board finds it has jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter of the appeal. The Board further finds the evidence and testimony in this record indicate the subject's lean to, milking barn, milk house and silo have been vacant or not used for farming purposes for years prior to the assessment year at issue in this appeal and made no contribution to the productivity of the subject's grain farming operation.

The Board finds the present use of land and buildings is the focus in issues involving farmland classification and assessment. Santa Fe Land Improvement Co. v. Illinois Property Tax Appeal Board, 113 Ill.App.3d at 872(3rd Dist. 1983). The Board finds Section 1-60 of the Property Tax Code states in relevant part

Improvements, other than farm dwellings, shall be assessed as a part of the farm and in addition to the farm dwellings when such buildings contribute in whole or in part to the operation of the farm. (35 ILCS 200/1-60)

Furthermore, Section 10-140 of the Property Tax Code provides:

Other improvements. Improvements other than the dwelling, appurtenant structures and site, including, but not limited to, roadside stands and buildings used for storing and protecting farm machinery and equipment, for housing livestock or poultry, or for storing, feed, grain or any substance that contributes to or is a product of the farm, shall have an equalized assessed value of 33 1/3% of their value, based upon the current use of those buildings and their contribution to the productivity of the farm. (35 ILCS 200/10-140)

Where farm structures do not contribute to the productivity of the farm, then the buildings would add nothing to the value of the farm. O'Connor v. A&P Enterprises, 81 Ill.2d 260, 267-68 (1980); see also Peacock v. Property Tax Appeal Board, 399 Ill.App.3d 1060, 1071-1073 (4th Dist. 2003).

The unrefuted testimony of the appellants was that four of the buildings have been vacant for years or used for non-farm storage prior to the subject's January 1, 2011 assessment date and that they made no contribution to the ongoing grain farming operation on the subject parcel. The Property Tax Appeal Board finds that notwithstanding the board of review's policy of assigning a salvage value to all farm buildings regardless of current use, the subject farm buildings made no contribution in whole or in part to the farming operation and therefore, have no contributory value. For this reason, buildings #2 through #5 shall be assessed at $0 for the 2011 assessment year.

This is a final administrative decision of the Property Tax Appeal Board which is subject to review in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court under the provisions of the Administrative Review Law (735 ILCS 5/3-101 et seq.) and section 16-195 of the Property Tax Code.
