

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE DECISION
ILLINOIS PROPERTY TAX APPEAL BOARD

APPELLANT: Ayman Abushanab
DOCKET NO.: 17-26207.001-R-1
PARCEL NO.: 23-13-103-066-0000

The parties of record before the Property Tax Appeal Board are Ayman Abushanab, the appellant(s), by attorney George N. Reveliotis, of Reveliotis Law, P.C. in Park Ridge; and the Cook County Board of Review.

Based on the facts and exhibits presented in this matter, the Property Tax Appeal Board hereby finds No Change in the assessment of the property as established by the Cook County Board of Review is warranted. The correct assessed valuation of the property is:

LAND: $ 1,055
IMPR.: $ 22,268
TOTAL: $ 23,323

Subject only to the State multiplier as applicable.

Statement of Jurisdiction

The appellant timely filed the appeal from a decision of the Cook County Board of Review pursuant to section 16-160 of the Property Tax Code (35 ILCS 200/16-160) challenging the assessment for the 2017 tax year. The Property Tax Appeal Board (the "Board") finds that it has jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter of the appeal.

Findings of Fact

The subject consists of a two-story dwelling of frame and masonry construction with 1,633 square feet of living area. The dwelling is 16 years old. Features of the home include a full unfinished basement, central air conditioning, a fireplace, and a two-car garage. The property has a 1,688 square foot site, and is located in Palos Township, Cook County. The subject is classified as a class 2-95 property under the Cook County Real Property Assessment Classification Ordinance. No evidence was submitted as to whether the subject is owner-occupied.

The appellant contends overvaluation as the basis of the appeal. In support of this argument, the appellant submitted evidence disclosing the subject property was purchased on June 29, 2016 for a price of $180,000, or $110.23 per square foot of living area, including land. The settlement statement submitted by the appellant states that the appellant purchased the subject from the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Company (“Freddie Mac”). Based on this evidence, the appellant requested a reduction in the subject’s assessment to $18,000.

The board of review submitted its “Board of Review Notes on Appeal” disclosing that the total assessment for the subject is $23,323. The subject’s assessment reflects a market value of $233,230, or $142.82 per square foot of living area, including land, when applying the 2017 statutory level of assessment for class 2 property of 10.00% under the Cook County Real Property Assessment Classification Ordinance.

In support of its contention of the correct assessment, the board of review submitted four equity comparables, and four sale comparables. These sale comparables sold from April 2016 to September 2016 for $219,000 to $303,000, or $143.98 to $162.72 per square foot of living area, including land. The board of review’s evidence also states that the subject was purchased in July 2016 for $180,000. The board of review also submitted a supplemental brief arguing that the sale of the subject was a compulsory sale, and therefore, the sale was not an arm’s-length transaction which would accurately represent the subject’s fair cash value. In support of this argument, the board of review submitted a printout from the Cook County Recorder of Deeds’ website showing that a lis pendens was filed on the subject by Fifth Third Mortgage Company on December 06, 2013, that the Intercounty Judicial Sales Company conveyed the subject to Freddie Mac via a judicial sale deed filed on November 20, 2014, and that Freddie Mac conveyed the subject to the appellant via a special warranty deed filed on July 13, 2016. The board of review also submitted a copy of FirstMerit Bank N.A. v. Bridgeview Bank, 2016 IL App (2d) 150364-U. The board of review asserts that this case stands for the proposition that:

[w]here the plaintiff in the foreclosure action is the high bidder at the judicial sale of the foreclosed property, the transaction is not an arm’s-length transaction. Thus, although the price paid by a willing buyer to a willing seller is generally a sound indication of an item’s value when the sale is at arm’s-length—see Walsh v. Property Tax Appeal Board, 181 Ill.2d 228, 230 (1998)—it would be error to use this measure in a situation in which the plaintiff controlled both the offer and the acceptance and thus could set any price it liked.

Conclusion of Law

The appellant contends the market value of the subject property is not accurately reflected in its assessed valuation. When market value is the basis of the appeal the value of the property must be proved by a preponderance of the evidence. 86 Ill.Admin.Code §1910.63(e). Proof of market value may consist of an appraisal of the subject property, a recent sale, comparable sales or construction costs. 86 Ill.Admin.Code §1910.65(c). The Board finds the appellant did not meet this burden of proof, and a reduction in the subject's assessment is not warranted.

The Board finds that the sale of the subject in June 2016 for $180,000 was a “compulsory sale.” A “compulsory sale” is defined as:

(i) the sale of real estate for less than the amount owed to the mortgage lender or mortgagor, if the lender or mortgagor has agreed to the sale, commonly referred to as a "short sale" and (ii) the first sale of real estate owned by a financial institution as a result of a judgment of foreclosure, transfer pursuant to a deed in lieu of foreclosure, or consent judgment, occurring after the foreclosure proceeding is complete.

35 ILCS 200/1-23. The Board finds that the sale of the subject in June 2016 is a compulsory sale, in the form of a foreclosure, based on the settlement statement submitted by the board of review, which states that the seller was Freddie Mac. See 12 U.S.C. § 1723a(a) (authorizing Freddie Mac to acquire property in the event of a default or a foreclosure); Federal National Mortgage Ass'n v. Altamirano, 2020 IL App (2d) 190198 ¶ 4 (stating that Freddie Mac foreclosed upon a property located in West Chicago, Illinois). See generally, Fed. Nat'l Mortg. Ass'n v. City of Chi., 2017 WL 4875785, 1 (7th Cir. 2017) ("When a borrower defaults, . . . Fannie Mae . . . forecloses and takes title to the real estate securing the loan.").

Finding that the sale of the subject was a compulsory sale, the question then becomes, whether the compulsory sale of the subject is an arm's-length transaction such that the sale price reflects the subject's fair cash value. Indeed, "a contemporaneous sale between parties dealing at arm's length is not only relevant to the question of fair cash market value, [citations] but would be practically conclusive on the issue of whether an assessment was at full value." People ex rel. Korzen v. Belt Ry. Co. of Chicago, 37 Ill.2d 158, 161 (1967). However, "[i]n order for the sale price of property to be used as the market value, the transaction must be between a willing buyer and a willing seller, neither of whom are under compulsion to buy or sell, and no account should be taken of values or necessities peculiar to either party." Id. at 164 (citing City of Chicago v. Harrison-Halsted Building Corp., 11 Ill.2d 431 (1957); Ligare v. Chicago, Madison and Northern Railroad Co., 166 Ill. 249 (1897); and City of Chicago v. Farwell, 286 Ill. 415 (1918), overruled on other grounds by Forest Preserve Dist. of Du Page County v. First Nat. Bank of Franklin Park, 2011 IL 110759). The appellant asserts that the sale of the subject was an arm's-length transaction, while the board of review contends that it is not. In weighing the arguments and supporting evidence submitted by the parties, the Board finds that the sale of the subject was not an arm's-length transaction.

The appellant asserts that the transaction was arm's-length because the parties to the transaction were not related, and the subject was advertised on the open market. The appellant submitted the deed, the settlement statement, and printout from the MLS in support of these assertions, and the board of review does not refute these facts. Thus, the Board finds that the parties to the transaction were not related, and that the subject was advertised for sale on the open market.

Having found as such, the Board's inquiry into whether the transaction was at arm's-length is not over. The board of review argues that since the sale was a compulsory sale, it is not an arm's-length transaction. The board of review submitted four sale comparables to show that the subject's purchase price was below its fair market value, and, therefore, the transaction was not arm's-length.

In Calumet Transfer LLC v. Property Tax Appeal, Bd., 401 Ill.App.3d 652 (1st Dist. 2010), the court upheld the Board's decision, wherein the Board allowed the intervenor to challenge the arm's-length nature of the sale of the property, through the submission of sale comparables, pursuant to Section 1910.65(c)(4) of the Official Rules of the Property Tax Appeal Board. Calumet Transfer, 401 Ill.App.3d at 655-56; 86 Ill.Admin.Code § 1910.65(c)(4) (“[p]roof of the market value of the subject property may consist of the following: 4) documentation of not fewer than three recent sales of suggested comparable properties together with documentation of the similarity, proximity and lack of distinguishing characteristics of the sales comparables to the subject property.”). Like the board of review here, the intervenor in Calumet Transfer argued that the seller was under duress to sell the property, and therefore, the purchase price was below fair market value as evidenced by the comparable sales. Id. at 656. The court stated that, “There is no provision in the Property Tax Code that restricts [the Board’s] authority to consider such evidence. To the contrary, paragraph (4) of section 1910.65(c) specifically allows evidence of comparable property sales to prove fair market value.” Id.

In looking at the sale comparables submitted by the parties, the Board finds board of review comparables #1, #2, #3, and #4 to be most similar to the subject. These comparables sold for prices ranging from $143.98 to $162.72 per square foot of living area, including land. The subject's sale price reflects a market value of $110.23 per square foot of living area, including land, which is below the range established by the best comparables in this record. Moreover, the appellant's current assessment reflects a market value of $142.82 per square foot of living area, including land, which is also below this range. Therefore, the Board finds that the sale of the subject in June 2016 for $180,000 was below the subject's fair market value, and, therefore, was not an arm's-length transaction. As such, this sale has been given no weight in the Board's analysis. Since there is no other market value evidence proffered by the appellant, the Board finds that the appellant has not proven, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the subject is overvalued and a reduction in the subject's assessment is not warranted.

This is a final administrative decision of the Property Tax Appeal Board which is subject to review in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court under the provisions of the Administrative Review Law (735 ILCS 5/3-101 et seq.) and section 16-195 of the Property Tax Code. Pursuant to Section 1910.50(d) of the rules of the Property Tax Appeal Board (86 Ill.Admin.Code §1910.50(d)) the proceeding before the Property Tax Appeal Board is terminated when the decision is rendered. The Property Tax Appeal Board does not require any motion or request for reconsideration.
