ILLINOIS PROPERTY TAX APPEAL BOARD

APPELLANT: AH Margate LLC
DOCKET NO.: 18-34264.001-R-1 through 18-34264.005-R-1
PARCEL NO.: See Below

The parties of record before the Property Tax Appeal Board are AH Margate LLC, the appellant(s), by attorney Brian P. Liston, of the Law Offices of Liston & Tsantilis, P.C. in Chicago; and the Cook County Board of Review.

Based on the facts and exhibits presented in this matter, the Property Tax Appeal Board hereby finds No Change in the assessment of the property as established by the Cook County Board of Review is warranted. The correct assessed valuation of the property is:

Statement of Jurisdiction

The appellant timely filed the appeal from a decision of the Cook County Board of Review pursuant to section 16-160 of the Property Tax Code (35 ILCS 200/16-160) challenging the assessment for the 2018 tax year. The Property Tax Appeal Board finds that it has jurisdiction over the parties and the subject matter of the appeal.

Findings of Fact

The subject consists of 5 condominium units in a 31-unit building with an aggregate 15.46% ownership interest in the common elements. The building is 101 years old and is situated on a 15,304 square foot site. The property is located in Lakeview Township, Cook County and is classified as class 2-99 property under the Cook County Real Property Assessment Classification Ordinance.

The appellant makes a contention of law as the basis of the appeal. In support of this argument, the appellant's legal brief states as follows:

Pursuant to the Illinois Property Tax Code and the Cook County Real Property Assessment Classification Ordinance, real property that is used for residential purposes must be valued at 10% of its fair cash value. 35 ILCS 200/9-145; Cook County Code of Ordinances §74-60, et seq. Fair cash value is defined as “the amount for which a property can be sold in the due course of business and trade, not under duress, between a willing buyer and a willing seller, 35 ILCS 200/1-50, as determined by sales ratio studies for the 3 most recent years preceding the assessment. Id at 200/1-55.

In support of this contention of law, the appellant submitted an attorney-prepared condominium sales ratio study showing that nine units in the subject’s building sold between May 2015 and August 2018 for an aggregate price of $1,537,000. The appellant deducted 7.0% from each comparable unit’s sale price to account for personal property. The comparable units had a total assessed value of $156,869. The appellant then divided the sale price for each unit, less the personal property deduction, by the unit’s total assessment to arrive at a sale ratio for each unit. The average of the comparable units’ sale ratios was 11.12%. The appellant then divided the 2018 statutory level of assessment for class 2 property of 10.00% under the Cook County Real Property Assessment Classification Ordinance by the average of the comparable units’ sale ratios of 11.12% to arrive at an adjustment factor of 89.90%. The appellant argues that this adjustment factor should be applied to the subject’s current assessment. In Section II of the appeal form, the appellant stated that the subject is not owner-occupied. Based on this evidence, the appellant requested a reduction in the subject’s assessment.

The board of review submitted its “Board of Review Notes on Appeal” disclosing that the total assessment for the subject is $80,067. The subject’s assessment reflects a market value of $800,670 when applying the 2018 statutory level of assessment for class 2 property of 10.00% under the Cook County Real Property Assessment Classification Ordinance.

In support of its contention of the correct assessment the board of review submitted a condominium analysis showing that nine units in the subject’s building, or 29.44% of ownership in the common elements, sold between June 2015 and December 2018 for an aggregate price of $1,537,000. The aggregate sale price was then divided by the percentage of ownership interest in the common elements of the units sold to arrive at a total market value for the building of $5,229,079.

Conclusion of Law

The appellant makes a contention of law as the basis for the appeal. “Unless otherwise provided by law or stated in the agency’s rules, the standard of proof in any contested case hearing conducted under this Act by an agency shall be the preponderance of the evidence.” 5 ILCS 100/10-15. The Board finds the appellant did not meet this burden of proof, and a reduction in the subject’s assessment is not warranted.

The appellant’s contention of law involves an issue of statutory construction.

When presented with an issue of statutory construction, [the Board’s] primary objective is to ascertain and give effect to the intent of the legislature.

Murphy-Hylton v. Lieberman Management Services, Inc., 2016 IL 120394, ¶ 25. All other rules of statutory construction are subordinate to this cardinal principle. Chicago Teachers Union, Local No. 1 v. Board of Education of the City of Chicago, 2012 IL 112566, ¶ 15. The most reliable indicator of legislative intent is the language of the statute, which must be given its plain and ordinary meaning. The statute is viewed as a whole, construing words and phrases in context to other relevant statutory provisions and not in isolation. Murphy-Hylton, 2016 IL 120394, ¶ 25; J&J Ventures Gaming, LLC v. Wild, Inc., 2016 IL 119870, ¶ 25.

Oswald v. Hamer, 2018 IL 122203, ¶ 10 (emphasis added).

The appellant cites section 1-55 of the Property Tax Code for the proposition that sales ratio studies are used to determine “fair cash value.” The appellant’s citation to section 1-55 for such a proposition is misleading, at best. Section 1-55 is found in Article 1 of the Property Tax Code, which is entitled “Short Title and Definitions.” When viewing the statute “as a whole...and not in isolation,” Oswald, 2018 IL 122203, ¶ 10, one can see that section 1-55 simply defines the term “33 1/3%” as follows:

Sec. 1-55. 33 1/3%. One-third of the fair cash value of property, as determined by the Department’s sales ratio studies for the 3 most recent years preceding the assessment year, adjusted to take into account any changes in assessment levels implemented since the data for the studies were collected.

35 ILCS 200/1-55. The plain and ordinary meaning of section 1-55 is simple: it is the definition for the term “33 1/3%.” When used in another part of the Property Tax Code, readers can refer to section 1-55 to ascertain the meaning of “33 1/3%.” Thus, this definition has no effect unless it is used in conjunction with another section of the Property Tax Code that uses the term “33 1/3%.” The appellant makes no reference, either implicitly or explicitly, to another section of the Property Tax Code that uses the term “33 1/3%.” This is despite the fact that the term “33 1/3%” is used 46 times outside of Article 1 of the Property Tax Code. The appellant’s failure to cite an additional part of the Property Tax Code that utilizes the term “33 1/3%,” renders the appellant’s reference to section 1-55 meaningless.

Instead, the appellant cherry-picks a phrase from section 1-55 and combines this phrase with the definition of “fair cash value” (35 ILCS 200/1-50) to support its contention of law. For the reasons cited above, this interpretation of the definitions in the Property Tax Code is untenable.

Section 1-55 dictates a specific source that the sales ratio study must come from: the Illinois Department of Revenue. The appellant restates the second clause of section 1-55 in the legal brief, however, the appellant omits two words: “the Department’s.” Were section 1-55 to read as the appellant suggests, the appellant’s attorney-prepared sales ratio study may be relevant. However, section 1-55 as drafted by the General Assembly provides that only sales ratio studies from the Illinois Department of Revenue can be used in defining “33 1/3%.” The appellant has not provided such evidence.

Instead, the appellant submitted the attorney-prepared sales ratio study. This evidence is also flawed. The appellate court has stated that when comparable properties used in a sales ratio study are handpicked and not random, the sales ratio study cannot be viewed as representative of the county's assessments as a whole. Peacock v. Illinois Property Tax Appeal Board, 339 Ill.App.3d 1060, 1069 (4th Dist. 2003). The appellant's attorney-prepared sales ratio study only provided comparables from within the subject's building, and, thus, it is clear that these sale comparables were handpicked, as opposed to random. Under the appellate court's holding in Peacock, the Board may properly disregard an attorney-prepared sales ratio study such as the one submitted by the appellant; and the Board does so here by according no weight to the appellant's attorney-prepared sales ratio study. Accordingly, the Board finds that the appellant failed to show by a preponderance of the evidence that the subject was not properly assessed and a reduction based on the evidence contained in this record is not justified.

This is a final administrative decision of the Property Tax Appeal Board which is subject to review in the Circuit Court or Appellate Court under the provisions of the Administrative Review Law (735 ILCS 5/3-101 et seq.) and section 16-195 of the Property Tax Code. Pursuant to Section 1910.50(d) of the rules of the Property Tax Appeal Board (86 Ill.Admin.Code §1910.50(d)) the proceeding before the Property Tax Appeal Board is terminated when the decision is rendered. The Property Tax Appeal Board does not require any motion or request for reconsideration.
